BOY

Picture at the Bijou Today is a Very Interesting One.

The Bijou theater is showing today a special two reel Vitaphone feature. The title is "Billy's Burglar." This is a bright and attractive glimpse of what goes on in the mind of a boy, together with a pictured account of his thrilling adventure with a noted burglar. He is a well-fed and interesting kid—not one of the fretful kind—and his blazed selfconfidence in a trying situation is a delightful piece of characterization. His natural love of the story, the same that takes him to the moving picture shows, is one that is bound to be utilized in due time to lead him into the heart of history and literature in general, but it impels him in this case to read sensational detective stories of the Nick Carter type.

The author of this comedy is Miss Mignon Zeigfeld. The direction of the reproduction is credited to Van Dyke Brook. As a comedy of boyhood, it is clean and wholesome. One can stand more of the same kind. It gives us an insight into impulses moving the American of tomorrow, the active, intelligent and interesting boy of today.

The admission today is ten cents for adults and five cents for children.
